THE POPPY APPEAL 2018

Once again the Poppy Appeal is looming with the launch in Hundon this year on Saturday 27 October. There are some changes in that we are going to be permitted to collect, account and bank collection. We will also be 'assisting' Clare and Poslingford that will include the distribution of poppy boxes and tins, counting and banking. Why we were selected for this may indicate that the steady growth of our collection annually ie commitment has been recognised! The figure last year was £1189.50 £20 up on the 2016 amount collected and is a record.

I'm especially grateful to our volunteer collectors: Richard Langridge, Paul Rymills, Loraine Callow, David Crawley, Simon Hickes, Marion Rowlinson, Catherine Clark and Sue Walker. Personal circumstances change but I'm hopeful that all these collectors will be able to patrol their 'pitches' again this year. These people go out at all times and in all weathers and as you know return to a house several times where there has been no response during the working day.

The collectors apart, there are tins and poppies in the Village School, the Village Shop, the Rose and Crown, The Plough (£8.22 in 2016, £78.59 last year) and Barnardiston Hall Prep School (£41.16 in 2016, £192.84 in 2017).

These are excellent results and I am most grateful. As you realise the need to boost to the coffers of The Royal British Legion Benevolent Fund (where are Poppy Appeal money goes) continues.

Most of the village will realise that this is not a good time for the Armed Forces: difficult to predict where defence sits in the Government financial priorities; soldiers and ex-soldiers, particularly those of The Parachute Regiment, facing prosecutions for activities in Northern Ireland over 40 years ago and in some cases including, as we read, General Lord Dannatt formerly the Chief of the General Staff for actions whilst a young officer serving in his battalion over 30 years ago; cutting unit size of operational and logistic Corps and Regiments; and savings in all three Armed Services.

For a variety of reasons male and female NCOs (non-commissioned officers – Corporals, Sergeants, etc), soldiers, sailors and airmen of all three Services fall on hard times and need the support of charities such as the Legion for themselves and their families. You may well say 'there is no war and so what is the concern?' But hundreds of soldiers, sailors and airmen both male and female need that support. The Legion does not support officers or their families directly but a % of the Poppy Appeal each year is given to The Officers' Association to assist officers when necessary.

So please, as in previous years, do what you can and if you can manage £5 or more it can be Gift Aided something mentioned before. Money donated by people still working and earning can gain 25% from the Revenue at no cost to the donor eg £5 becomes £6.25 to the Legion, £10/12.50, £15/£17.25 and £20/25. Of course £1 – £4 can be Gift Aided but can be difficult to work out the percentage and complete the form at the front door!

I'm confident that Legion restructuring of how we do things locally will prove to be beneficial. Just one bleat – if you have bought your poppy Downtown or in the shop do please tell the collector.

FROM REV'D LYNDA SEBBAGE

YOU CROWN THE YEAR WITH YOUR BOUNTY!

John Donne said, "No spring nor summer's beauty hath such grace as I have seen in one autumnal face..." (Elegy IX: The Autumnal). I must say I agree with him! While spring is a wonderful time, heralding the warmer weather as fresh new colour bursts through the chilled earth, so is autumn. Autumn waves the summer out with a rich and vibrant array of colours; it's a time of early morning mists, fragrant berries, and displays of intricately built spiders' webs that seem to simply hang in the air. There's a sense of preparation for the cold weeks ahead that take us into winter, as the last fruits are gathered and the final harvests come in.

Harvest is synonymous with autumn, and in fact the word originates from the Old English word 'haerfest', meaning autumn. Pre-dating Christianity, it was usually accompanied by a huge feast to celebrate "the season of gathering in the crops".

There's a reference to harvest in the Old Testament, in Genesis 8, that reads: "As long as the earth endures, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night, shall not cease" (Gen 8.22). These words are taken from the story of Noah, and even today are extremely comforting; they illustrate that given humanity's poor record of caring for creation, God will not give up on us or destroy that which He has created, but gives us free will. Not only that, God asks us to sow seeds of faith in others, so that those who do not yet know Him can be brought to Him as part of the harvest.

As in previous years, we are celebrating our harvest services in all the churches within our benefice. It's a time of thanksgiving and celebration, and this year particularly so; no doubt the services will be accompanied by a much deeper sense of gratitude than usual, and even perhaps apprehension - given the difficulties faced over the summer due to the extended drought. It's at times like these that we realise just how finely balanced our world is, and how precious our natural commodities are to us. Even now, weeks later, I feel guilty if I throw my washing up water down the sink instead of on the garden!

The psalmist captures the essence of God's bountiful goodness with these words from Psalm 65:

*You visit the earth and water it,
you greatly enrich it;
the river of God is full of water;
you provide the people with grain,
for so you have prepared it.*

Let us pray never to take for granted the richness of the harvest, and be forever thankful for all that God provides us with.

*With every blessing
Lynda*

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE HUNDON RESIDENT WHO MADE THE CRITICISMS OF OUR NEW HOUSE ON PAGE 6 OF THE SEPTEMBER ISSUE OF THE HUNDON HERALD.

Firstly, if you are prepared to make such bold criticisms in the village magazine then I'm surprised you'd feel the need to hide behind an anonymous letter. To be honest I'm pretty disappointed that you chose our village magazine as a forum for your criticism and negativity. Your opinion should have been raised to the Planning Department and Conservation at the time the plans were submitted, not after the house has been built.

Everyone is entitled to their own opinions, that's why everyone has a right to object at planning stage. However I read your comments as small-minded, out-dated and in complete contradiction to Claire Johnson, Conservation Officer at St. Ed's who stated in her Conservation Report:

"The use of sympathetic materials offers a sense of subservience to The Croft and overall will both preserve the character and appearance of the conservation area and that of the setting of the adjacent listed building".

We live in a wonderful community where we should be supporting each other in the continued development & improvement of our lovely village, not berating each other with such bitterness. It's not nice and it's certainly not clever.

I recently posted this response to your statement on the Hundon Facebook page and was overwhelmed by the positive messages of support for our new home. We are so happy to see that your negative opinion is in the minority.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank our neighbours in Church Street and beyond (particularly to Clare at The Croft) for their understanding and patience whilst the building work has been going on, we very much appreciate it.

Kindest regards,

COMMUNITIES URGED TO MAKE THE RIGHT CALL AS INAPPROPRIATE ENQUIRIES STILL CONTINUE TO BE MADE ON 999 AND 101

From receiving complaints about coffee-making to asking for a taxi number and not being able to log into social media accounts – these are just some of the types of calls made to the control room – many of which came through on the emergency number.

Suffolk police released real examples of calls made to 999 and 101 in a bid to encourage people to think before they dial.

Assistant Chief Constable (ACC) Rachel Kearton said: "The number of calls for help we receive is rising and we want to make sure we speak to you as soon as possible.

Around 40% of the calls made to us do not require any police action. We strive to deliver a quality service, however unnecessary calls to us take time to deal with, time we want give to those callers who genuinely need the police. The vast majority of our non-urgent calls could be resolved on our recently updated website. It offers a wealth of information, including frequently asked questions, advice and the ability to easily report minor matters and crimes online. I would urge anyone who has not seen our website recently to have a look.

While we encourage anyone with a non-urgent enquiry to visit our website first, for emergencies 999 is the way to get in contact with us quickly. I'd like to remind people that by using 999 inappropriately, you could delay a real emergency call, which may have devastating consequences."

Earlier this year, the force made improvements to its telephony system. Launched in May, the new digital system enables control room staff to identify and prioritise the most important calls that come through on the 101 number. The system also gives the flexibility the constabulary needs in the future to take full advantage of different ways to contact us as technology evolves.

ACC Kearton added: "The new system is already helping the force to manage calls by directing non-urgent or non-relevant calls to the correct partner agency or online."

For more information or to report a non-urgent incident, which currently takes less than two minutes to do on our website, please visit: <http://www.suffolk.police.uk/contact-us/report-something>

10 examples of inappropriate calls we have received:

1. A man called 999 because no one would get him a cup of coffee.
2. My son has snatched the remote control and won't give it back.
3. What is the best taxi company?
4. I've been drinking for two days; can the police come and check I'm still under the drink-drive limit?
5. What are your non-emergency numbers?
6. A doorman won't let me in because I'm wearing tracksuit bottoms.
7. What's the number for the Premier Inn?
8. I can't log into my Facebook account.
9. I want to complain as there is a fly in my kebab.
10. There's no label on my microwave meal and I don't know how long to cook it for

VILLAGE SHOP – APPEAL FOR VOLUNTEERS

Our village shop is a community shop which relies almost entirely on volunteers to keep it open.

We are still in immediate need of new volunteers who can make a commitment to helping out in the shop for a couple of hours a week, on a regular basis, on either Monday afternoons, Wednesday afternoons, Friday mornings or Saturday mornings (cover can be arranged when required).

We also require helpers who are willing to give occasional cover to regular volunteers as and when needed.

If you can spare some time to help keep the shop running (or know somebody who might) then please speak to Karen on 786223, or call into the shop for more information.

Thank you.

Graham Gosling

KEEPING HUNDON POST OFFICE OPEN The final chapter (hopefully!)

As many of you already know Megan's interview with Post Office Ltd went very well and, although at the time of writing this she is still awaiting her contract, the Interviewer told her he was putting her forward for the job — so our Post Office is secure (subject to Megan signing the paperwork!) at least for the foreseeable future.

The village has a lot of people to thank for their help in saving our Post Office. These include Matt Hancock MP, Mary Evans, our County/Borough Councillor, The Parish Council, the Rogeron Trust, Broxted Solar, The Village Hall, Community Action Suffolk, plus the many Friends of Hundon Post Office who have donated the time, energy and financial help needed to allow us to keep our Post Office.

I'm sure you will all agree our Post Office and Shop are both valuable assets to the whole village and the surrounding area. Please make full use of both. If we don't use them we will lose them as the last few months negotiations with Post Office Ltd have proved.

Below are details of the services which are available at our Post Office. We have also included a full list of all the banking facilities our Post Office offers, as you may find this useful with the closure of so many of the local banks.

Jill Brown

HUNDON W.I.

Why were a purple cyclamen plant, a scarf, two candles and two seashells placed on the floor of the village hall?? Well, 20 members and friends of Hundon WI danced around them, and left our meeting in September with smiles on their faces after an enjoyable evening learning to circle dance.

Jen Larner showed us some simple dance steps, accompanied by various tunes from around the world. At one stage we were miming picking apples, throwing them at each other, eating them or putting them into a basket!! Some of the more gentle dances which are used when Jen visits Care Homes, or teaches less abled people, demonstrated hand and foot actions while sitting on chairs. Our fun evening ended with our usual refreshments and raffle.

The next meeting is 11th October at 7.15 in the Village Hall (please note earlier time) - Haunted Suffolk, by Graham Higgins.

HUNDON VILLAGE SHOP NEWS

My dearest Mina,
I hope this letter finds you well and that I will soon be back with you after my travels to Hundon. It is a small village but with an excellent little shop. It is currently promoting the fact that it has such a range of sweets and goodies – ready for the celebrations later this month on Hallowe'en; the night for remembering the dead. The locals don't seem to want to discuss affairs over much ...in fact some are quite dour. I came across one such fellow just after sunset who seemed to be muttering something about "the blood is the life". Most odd. He was dressed in a black cloak and was very pale of face. I asked about him in the shop but again people were very coy and suggested I just worry about how to take part in trick or treat. Evidently this is a tradition much enjoyed in the village. The folk dress in costumes and go from door to door demanding tricks or treats. The costumes are those of ghosts, goblins and witches. My understanding is that by disguising themselves as such creatures of the night they will not be spotted by the real spirits wandering and thus remain safe from molestation and disturbance. Many go to great lengths to carve their jack o' lanterns from orange pumpkins. The night and its traditions seem to mark the harvest and autumn, with its browns, golds and oranges whereas the black represents death and the onset of winter. Chilling indeed, my dear! I am not taken in by such superstitions of course, although the call of the owl did make me shiver a little.

Better to focus on the light and laughter of the day. The shop will be stocking a supply of cheering winter flowering pansies and the pretty miniature cyclamens to brighten up borders and tubs. It is always so rewarding to be able to remove the summer bedding that is now looking so sad and sorry and replace with such strong and brightly coloured plants.

Well, my dear. I will be travelling on to Whitby soon. Perhaps you will be able to join me. We can look forward to such adventures... memories to last a lifetime...and beyond!

Your loving husband, Jonathan.

Denise Thompson
